

5 Last-Minute Mother's Day Gifts

Mother's Day is in 3 days and as I wrote in this post most Torontonians end up leaving for the last hour to purchase their mom's gift. If you are in this group - and you are lost - and have no idea what to buy for your mother I can help you. In this post I have separated 5 simple and easy last-minute gifts that you can buy to your mother.

1. Breakfast in Bed: that's right, the first gift from this list can be as simple as a breakfast in bed, with basically what you have at home. If you want to do something more elaborated, go to a market and buy some delights that she enjoys. In the morning, put everything on a tray, write a little message on a piece of paper and go wake her with this special surprise.
2. Flowers: buying flowers for mothers is common but something extremely special. Flowers symbolize love and can thrill anyone, especially mothers. This weekend the markets in Toronto will have several flowers for you to choose from and give to your mother. The good part about flowers is that they are a gift that can be bought literally at the last minute, but I'm sure will be very special to the special person receiving them.
3. A Special Lunch: having a brunch is a tradition during Mother's Day weekend in Toronto. However, restaurants are usually full and the price of buffets are very expensive. One option (if you want to have a special lunch with your Mom) is to cook for her: choose one of her favorite dishes, a delicious dessert and a good wine. As simple as that.
4. A Spa Voucher or Kit: a super cool idea is to give your mother a massage or a spa day. You do not necessarily have to give the voucher to her on Mother's Day. You can write on a piece of paper and then check with her which date she prefers to be spoiled. Another option is to buy a spa kit and turn her home into a treatment center.
5. A Basket of Goodies: buy a beautiful basket full of delights that your mother likes: chocolates, cookies, jams, breads, wines ... you can use your imagination to fill the basket and make her happy because, besides giving her lots of goodies, she will know that you thought about her and what she likes, and this is super special.

Where to find these last-minute gifts for moms at the GTA?

Rabba Fine Foods is a local market and convenience store that serves the daily grocery needs of more than 34 neighbourhoods in the central and western parts of the GTA. Open year round, 24 hours a day, Rabba offers everything you'd expect from your local market – fresh produce, deli counter, ready-to-eat items, bakery, dairy products and other essential supplies for home or work. A family-run business with roots extending back to 1967, Rabba is committed to serving its neighbours and friends in the GTA and meeting their ever-changing grocery and convenience needs. For more information on Rabba or any of its locations, visit <http://www.rabba.com/>.

All the last-minute gifts I mentioned above can be purchased at Rabba, who will be selling flowers this weekend at all stores scattered around the GTA. Bouquets cost between CAD $ 9.99 (3 roses) and CAD $ 22.99 (12 roses). There are also chocolates, grocery, bakery, beauty products and other gifts to mothers. And to help you with this purchase I am raffling 3 gift cards worth CAD $ 100 each for 3 lucky readers. To know how to participate, just click here.
